

Worksheet — The Stem

Student Name: _____ Date: _____

Section: _____ Class/Roll No: _____

A. Fill in the Blanks

1. The stem develops from the _____ of the embryo.
2. The point on the stem bearing a leaf is called a _____.
3. The segment between two nodes is called an _____.
4. A potato tuber is a modified _____.

B. One Word Answer

1. Name the bud found at the apex of a stem. Ans: _____
2. Name the bud found in the leaf axil. Ans: _____
3. Name the underground modified stem seen in ginger. Ans: _____
4. Name the modified stem used for climbing in grapevine. Ans: _____

C. Match the Following

Column A	Column B
Potato	Thorn
Ginger	Stem tendril
Grapevine	Tuber
Citrus	Rhizome

D. True or False

1. Stems are distinguished from roots by presence of nodes and internodes. (True/False)
2. Young stems are typically woody and brown. (True/False)
3. A rhizome is an example of a modified root. (True/False)
4. Terminal buds occur at the stem apex. (True/False)

E. Short Answer Questions

1. Define node and internode with an example. [2 Marks]
2. Why is a potato tuber classified as a modified stem? [2 Marks]

F. Short Essay Questions

1. Explain three functions of modified stems with examples. [3 Marks]
2. Differentiate between a stem and a root using three structural features. [3 Marks]

G. Long Answer / Essay Questions

1. Describe in detail the underground and aerial modifications of the stem, giving one example of each. [5 Marks]