

Worksheet — The Flower

Student Name: _____ Date: _____

Section: _____ Class/Roll No: _____

A. Fill in the Blanks

1. The swollen end of the pedicel is called the _____.
2. In hypogynous flowers, the ovary is _____.
3. Stamens fused into two bundles are called _____.
4. Carpels that remain free are called _____.

B. One Word Answer

1. Name the whorl composed of sepals. Ans: _____
2. Name the whorl composed of petals. Ans: _____
3. Name the condition where calyx and corolla are undifferentiated. Ans: _____
4. Name the aestivation type seen in Pea. Ans: _____

C. Match the Following

Column A	Column B
Hypogynous	Superior ovary
Perigynous	Half-inferior ovary
Epigynous	Inferior ovary
Vexillary	Pea

D. True or False

1. Actinomorphic flowers show radial symmetry. (True/False)
2. Zygomorphic flowers can be divided equally along any plane. (True/False)
3. Syncarpous carpels are fused together. (True/False)
4. Axile placentation is seen in Pea. (True/False)

E. Short Answer Questions

1. Define perianth and give an example. [2 Marks]
2. Differentiate between apocarpous and syncarpous gynoecium. [2 Marks]

F. Short Essay Questions

1. Explain the four types of aestivation with examples. [3 Marks]
2. Describe hypogynous, perigynous, and epigynous conditions with examples. [3 Marks]

G. Long Answer / Essay Questions

1. Describe the four floral whorls of a typical flower in detail and explain the five types of placentation with suitable examples. [5 Marks]